

Antiphon 4. Mode pl. 1. Pa=D.

Diatonic

D

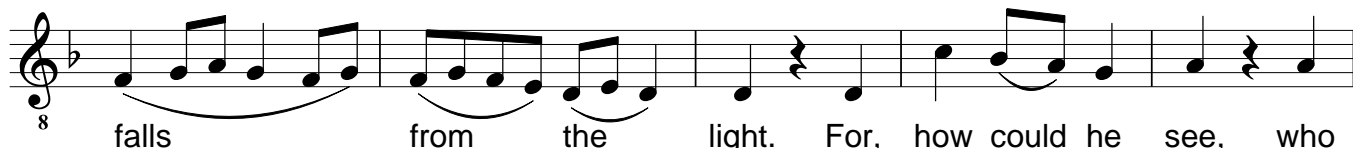

To - day, Ju - das for - sakes the Teach - er and takes to him - self the Dev - il. He is blind-ed by the pas - sion of av - a - rice, and in his dark - ness he falls from the light. For, how could he see, who sold the guid - ing Light for thir - ty piec- es of sil - ver? But He who suf-fered for the world has ris - en for us. Let us cry out to Him, "O Lord, who suf-fered for and with human - i - ty, glo - ry to You!"

Diatonic

D

8 To - day, Ju - das pre - tends god - li - ness,

8 and es - trang - es him - self from the 8 gift of grace. Be - ing a Dis - ci -

8 - ple, he be - comes a be - tray -

8 - er. Un - der a guise of friend - ship, he hides

8 de - ceit. In his fol - ly he pre - fers thir - ty piec - es

8 of sil - ver to the Mas - ter's love, and he be -

8 comes a guide for the coun - cil that trans - gressed

8 the Law. But we have Christ as our sal -

8 - va - tion. Let us glo - ri - fy Him.

Mode 1. Pa=D.

Diatonic

D

8 As breth - ren in Christ, let us have love

8 for the breth - ren and not a lack of sym-

8 - pa - thy for our neigh - bors, so that we may 8 not be con - demned like that ser - vant who was

8 mer - ci - less re - gard - ing his mon - ey, and gain

8 noth - ing from re - pent - ance, like Ju - das.

Glory; both now. Mode 1. Heirmologic. Pa=D.

Diatonic

D

