

Another Exapostelarian. Same Melody.

The musical score is written on six staves, each beginning with a treble clef and a common time signature 'C'. A key signature of one sharp (F#) is indicated by a 'G' above the first staff. The lyrics are written below the notes, with some words hyphenated across lines. The melody is consistent across all staves. The lyrics are: 'The wealth You gave to me, O Lord, I squan-dered and I spent it all. And I the wretch have sub-mit-ted my - self to the wick - ed de - mons. O Sav - ior all - com - pas - sion-ate, take pit - y on this Prod - i-gal. And make me clean, for I am stained. And give me a-gain my for - mer robe of Your rule and king - dom.'

^G

⁸ The wealth You gave to me, O Lord, I

⁸ squan-dered and I spent it all. And I the wretch have sub-

⁸ mit-ted my - self to the wick - ed de - mons. O Sav - ior

⁸ all - com - pas - sion-ate, take pit - y on this Prod - i-gal.

⁸ And make me clean, for I am stained. And give me a-

⁸ gain my for - mer robe of Your rule and king - dom.